

SCOUTING FUND DRIVE HERE IS BROUGHT TO CLOSE

Fund of $1,000 Obtained for Boy Scouts After Valiant Effort

ALL ARE THANKED
Letters Mailed by Fred
Clark, Fund Chairman

The drive to obtain $1,000, Circleville's quota for Boy Scouts in this city, has been completed according to an announcement by Fred C. Clark, chairman of the maintenance fund. The campaign has been brought to a close only after valiant effort on the part of Mr. Clark, who has taken much time from his own duties to further the cause of scouting in this community.

Mr. Clark will announce a total list of donations to the fund within the next few days.

SUBMITS TWO LETTERS
Following are two letters submitted to The Herald by Mr. Clark in announcing the close of the drive:

To the Editor,
The Herald:
In view of the exceedingly gratifying response which has come to the appeal of the Boy Scout organization in this district adequate thanks would be difficult to extend to all those who contributed their time or money in the furtherance of this most worthy endeavor; however, we would appreciate the use of your columns to express some of the appreciation which we feel for that splendid enthusiasm and productive effort which the ladies brought to this campaign, and for the generous response given by the men and women of the community.

The Boy Scout should, and believe, is very dear to the hearts of all intelligent people who have an interest in the welfare of the community in which they live, and we have been reassured in this conviction by the results of this campaign — it is the kind of general reassurance which will go far toward making more effective and pervasive the whole Boy Scout operation in this community. It speaks well for the nature and spirit of our citizenry — it is an inspiring source of pride and gratitude for all of us.

(Signed)
FRED C. CLARK,
Chairman Maintenance Fund

The second letter follows:
To the Editor,
The Circleville Herald,
Dear Sir:

"On behalf of the Boy Scouts of this city, we wish to commend you for the generous spirit in which you have cooperated toward making a success of the campaign for funds. Your news columns have been open at all times to items of interest as we have offered, and you have been such a consistent booster of this effort in behalf of 'men of tomorrow' that we feel sure the goal would not have been achieved without your assistance.

It is a source of gratification for all those who have given of their time and money in this worthy cause, to announce the completion of the drive. It is a pleasure to acknowledge so many evidences of true community spirit, and to thank one and all who helped to demonstrate once again that Circleville has the proper spirit in regard to her problems and their solutions. We confidently predict that the entire community will realize concrete evidence of the benefits of increased Boy Scout activity in this city.

(Signed)
FRED C. CLARK,
Chairman Maintenance Fund

Rightmire, Trustees In Miller Controversy.

COLUMBUS, O., June 2.—Demand for a legislative investigation of the dismissal of Dr. Herbert Miller, Ohio State University sociology professor, by the university board of trustees will be made in the house of representatives this afternoon it was said here today.

A resolution calling upon the house of representatives to appoint a committee of five to investigate Dr. Miller's discharge by the board of trustees has been prepared by Representative Martin E. (B.) of Cleveland, and was to be introduced at the first opportunity at today's session.

The resolution provides for "an inquiry and investigation of the conduct of the president, the board of trustees and Dr. Miller."

COLUMBUS, O., June 2.—Describing the explanations given for the dismissal of Dr. Herbert A. Miller, outspoken Ohio State university sociology professor, as "inadequate, indefensible and reactionary," the Ohio Sociological society today protested to Governor George White, President George W. Rightmire, and the Ohio State board of trustees. By their action in dismissing Dr. Miller the trustees have "placed Ohio in the wrong light in the eyes of the academic world," the statement said.

The protest was signed by Prof. Charles W. Coulter of Ohio Wesleyan, Prof. Morris C. Caldwell of Ashland college and Prof. S. H. Bing of Ohio university, the president, vice president and secretary-treasurer, respectively, of the society, which was said to represent sociologists of the Ohio colleges.

Although the statement was addressed to Dr. Rightmire and to the trustees, a copy was sent to the governor so he could personally know of the attitude taken by Ohio sociologists, the officials said.

Proposed License Boost Would Give Pickaway-co $5,000 More Each Year

If the proposed bill which would increase the license fees on motor vehicles, passed by the Ohio senate by a vote of 18 to 13 Monday night passes the House of Representatives, then becomes a law, an increase of about $5,000 per year out of the license fees will be collected by Pickaway-co, according to information received from the county auditor's office.

Last year $15,189.06 was collected by the county from this license fee, and the proposed increase of rates will mean an approximate 37 1/2 per cent increase in the amount collected by the county, which will represent almost $22,000.

The measure, which is expected to raise $14,500,000 in revenues next year, imposes the following rates on pleasure cars; 25-horsepower or less, $7; 25 to 28-horsepower, $10; 28 to 32-horsepower, $15; 32 to 36-horsepower, $20 and more than 32-horsepower, $25. Present pleasure car fees are $4, $6, and $10.

The following scale would be levied by the bill on commercial cars: 70 cents per 100 pounds for each vehicle up to 2,000 pounds; $1.10 for each 100 pounds from 2,000 to 3,000; $1.50 for each 100 pounds from 3,000 to 4,000; $1.75 for each 100 pounds from 4,000 to 6,000; $2 for each 100 pounds from 6,000 to 10,000 pounds, and $2.25 for each 100 pounds over 10,000 pounds.

The bill provides the following distribution of the revenues it is expected to raise: 25 per cent to municipal corporations for maintenance and repair of streets, 3 per cent to be divided among the 88 counties equally, 47 per cent to the counties on the basis of their motor vehicle registration, and the remaining 25 per cent to the state highway maintenance and repair fund.

SCHOOL RELIEF IS PUT BEFORE SOLONS TODAY

Senate Passes Auto License Measure to House After Confirmation

VOTE IS 18 TO 13

House In Favor of Income Tax Measure

COLUMBUS, O., June 2.—Possibility that the Ohio legislature's new tax-raising program may be restricted at the present session to the enactment of the intangible tax, motor vehicle tax and school relief bills loomed today.

The school relief bill, authorizing school districts to subject to a vote of the people proposals to levy taxes or issue bonds for school purposes outside of the 15-mill tax limitation, comes up in the senate this afternoon on a question of passage.

The motor vehicle tax bill passed the senate Monday night by a vote of 18 to 13. It has been sent to the house.

The intangible tax bill, in the hands of the house taxation committee, following its passage through the senate last week, is scheduled to reach a final vote on the floor of the house the latter part of this week.

The senate this afternoon, also, will take up the question of passing the bills dealing with the collection of delinquent taxes and providing for the election of county budget commissions designed to curb the expenditures of taxes by the local political subdivisions. All of these measures were drafted by the special joint taxation committee.

The school relief bill provides that tax levies for school purposes may be authorized by a 50 per cent vote of the election of the school district and that bonds issues may be authorized by a 55 per cent vote.

With the motor vehicle and the intangible tax bills went through the senate without any changes being made on the floor about $27,000,000 a year in revenue and the motor vehicle tax bill approximately $23,000,000, of which about $7,000,000, in the form of license fees, from trucks, busses and commercial cars.

There still is considerable sentiment among house members in favor of an income tax law. Considerable doubt exists, however, as to whether such a measure could pass the senate.

Members of the lower legislative branch today were of the opinion that a determined effort will be made in that house to increase the basic rates in the intangible tax bill so as to boost its annual yield to between $50,000,000 and $60,000,000 and to lower the fees in the motor vehicle tax measure applying to the so called "pool man's" cars.

The house today was scheduled to read for the second time, and refer to the finance committee, a bill introduced Monday night by Rep. L. P. Mooney (R) of Logan chairman of that committee, authorizing the appropriation of $600,000 from the state's general revenue fund for the purpose of completing the new state office building.

DOCTOR SLAIN

NEW YORK, June 2.—Bludgeoned, strangled, stabbed, Dr. George E. Deely, well-known Brooklyn specialist, was found murdered in his bedroom today. It was a real murder mystery.

There were many evidences of a struggle in the luxurious apartment. Curtains were jerked from the windows. Tables, chairs, and other furniture were overturned.

Directly across the street from the murder house is located a school for girls.

The doctor's body was found today by the wife of the caretaker. In gay-colored pajamas, it lay on a costly Oriental rug in the bedroom.

CHURCH, STATE FIGHT TO DRAW PREMIER MOVE

Mussolini Expected To Outline Possible Program at Meeting Today.

ROME, June 2.—Government action in the controversy between state and church appeared imminent today.

The directorate of the Fascist party was expected to outline a program of conciliation toward the Vatican at a meeting over which Premier Benito Mussolini was to preside. The session of party leaders follows the special consistory of 24 Cardinals yesterday at which Pope Pius XI insisted that the Lateran treaty and the Concordat be upheld and maintained.

Rome today anxiously awaited the meeting at which it was understood the government's policy would be outlined and further explanation of its actions during the past few days be afforded.

It was understood playgrounds operated in the capital by the American Knights of Columbus would be re-opened today. They were closed on Saturday by the decree that locked the doors of Catholic clubs throughout the nation.

Mussolini's action in forbidding a demonstration of Fascist students last night also gave evidence for the resumption of amicability between the Vatican and the Quirinal. The students had planned to assemble near St. Peter's square close to the Vatican.

Further evidence of attempts to close the widening breach was seen in the orders issued by the government and the church to its newspapers to discontinue attacks prevalent during the past week.

HATCHERY IN COUNTY NOW IS POSSIBLE

Mr. Vorhees, State Conservationist is Elated Over Sight on Deercreek

SPANGLER IN FAVOR

Senator Promises Cooperation at Meeting

Promises that all efforts will be bent to obtain a fish hatchery in Pickaway-co were made at a meeting of the Kiyanto Club Monday evening by Senator William I. Spangler, of Tazewell. A site has been obtained by Frank Vorhees, state conservationist, for a fish hatchery on Deercreek in that creek-twp at the Jones or Burns Mills, south of Williamsport.

Mr. Vorhees is so much elated over the proposed site for a fish hatchery that he has gone as far as to draw a plat showing its location and how the hatchery would be operated.

The meeting of the Kiyanto Club Monday, at which the promise to use all its influence to gain a hatchery, was under the direction of state conservationist. The first speaker called was H. R. Ransmeyer, one of the best known conservationists, who terms himself not a speaker but a critic. Mr. Ransmeyer explored the fact that more conservation organizations are not based in Ohio's wild life program.

SPANGLER SPEAKS

Senator Spangler was then called upon by acting-President Tom Renick. Spangler lamented the failure of the Anglers Club, which would have provided an additional conservation organization.

He said in closing that the operation of several other conservation organizations in this locality can be dependent upon.

Dr. E. L. Wickliff, chief of the bureau of research in the state conservation department, reported to be one of the most learned fish and game men in Ohio, was then called. His talk dealt with the habits of fish and their propagation.

Dr. Wickliff went into a number of technicalities concerning fish and game life and left little to be desired.

Following Dr. Wickliff's talk, motion pictures of wild life and of muskie fishing in Canada were shown by H. R. Fent, official state conservation department photographer. Scenes at the Roosevelt game preserve and the Wellington preserve were shown much to the interest of the gathering.

A number of Pickaway-co sportsmen attended the meeting with 21 Boy Scouts, members of Circleville troop 107.

TRICKS of MAGIC EXPLAINED by Will Lindhorst

TRICK FOR DINING ROOM MAGICIANS

Here is a good trick to perform at the dining table. It is necessary beforehand to cover your fingers with an adhesive substance such as gum arabic, rubber cement or lead plaster. At the table you pick up a knife, rub it briskly on the palm of your hand as though to magnetize it and turning your thumb upward press the knife against your fingers, where it will stick. In explanation, you can jokingly say that by rubbing the knife on your palm you have caused the magnetism from your body to enter the knife, thereby making it possible for the knife to cling to your fingers.

Some solons are displaying an inclination to accept the suggestion, made by a Republican leader, that, in view of the depleted condition of the state's general revenue fund, money to temporarily transferred from the soldiers' bonus fund to the general revenue account and then appropriated to complete the building.
It was estimated that between $450,000 and $500,000 more money will be needed to complete the building.

This additional sum, it was explained, will be necessary because decreased values in the real estate market, due to the industrial depression, makes it advisable that the state NOT sell the Wyandotte building, in East Main-st., until market prices return to a higher level. State offices are housed in these buildings.
When the original plans were made for the construction of the new office building, it was expected that these properties would be sold about the time the new structure was ready for occupancy and the proceeds applied to the cost of the building. The present and last state legislatures appropriated a total of about $5,198,000 for the new building, exclusive of the amount to be derived from the sale of the Wyandotte and Hartman buildings.

Supporters of the plan to transfer money from the soldiers' bonus account declared that payments into this fund during the two-year period ending in 1933 would approximate $5,000,000 and that this would leave a surplus of about $1,000,000 in excess of the amount that would be spent in connection with compensation payment to World war veterans.
While legislators are groping their way through the maze of taxation measures, organized farmers of Ohio, through a statement issued by officials of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation, have decided what they want.

Here 'tis:
"First: A personal income tax with low rates and low exemptions. One per cent on the first $1,000; two per cent on the second $1,000; three per cent on the next $1,000; four per cent on the fourth $1,000; five per cent on the fifth $1,000, and six per cent on all beyond $5,000. Exemptions: $750 for single persons; $1,500 for each married person, plus $200 for each dependent.
"Second: An 'equitable' tax on intangibles, either by a low rate or through the income method, or both.
"Third: Certain 'business taxes' of which stamp taxes, mortgage recording taxes and stock transfer taxes are types.
"Fourth: 'Selective sales taxes' to reach luxuries and amusements.

"Fifth: Removal of the automobile from the property tax duplicate and an equitable increase in the license fee.
"Sixth: Truck and motor bus taxes levied in proportion to their use of, and damage to, the highways."
Members of the federation would require all persons of legal age to file tax returns, with penalty for failure to do so; increase the percentage of voters required to pass bond issues and special tax levies outside the 15-milk limitation; provide for scrutiny of budgets; tax levies and bond issues, abolish assessments for state highway purposes; limit assessments for road purposes to 20 per cent of the value of the real estate; limit the sum of all special assessments at any time to 1-3 of the tax value of the real estate; enact special sales taxes to produce additional necessary state revenues, and hold revenues derived from motor vehicles inviolate for highway purposes.
Boards of education throughout Ohio are facing a serious financial situation, due to the incompleteness and doubtful result of the taxation program now before the state legislature.
Unable to determine what revenues will be available for school purposes during the coming year, these boards, it is claimed, cannot enter into salary contracts with teachers for the coming school year. School officials pointed out that this is the time of year when such contracts must be consummated.
To make matters worse, it seems that the school revenue situation will remain indefinite for some time. Because of this emergency situation, school boards of various points throughout the state department of education with requests for advice as to what method should be followed under the circumstances.
The situation is regarded by the Cincinnati school board as being especially serious. Conditions in the Cincinnati public schools are complicated by reason of the fact that the five-year extra tax levy for the teachers' salary schedule will expire at the close of this year.
As a result of this condition, it was stated, school boards may be forced to resort to conditional contracts, basing salary payments on "what the board is able to pay" and shortening the present 10-month school year to nine months.

Quack Panaceas

WHEREAS it used to be said that every man who walked the streets of Boston carried in his pocket an infallible cure for business depression, unemployment and the economic ills of the world.

Government officials complain at these doctors to prosperity who become a nuisance, if not a nightmare. They flood the streets with their nostrums and schemes and fill the reception rooms of men in high places, wasting valuable time and hindering the work of men who really can do something to encourage prosperity.

Does it never occur to these doctors of economic patent medicine that no person is more eager than a President Hoover and no group of persons is more eager than the administration to bring it to an end and that they are at their command the best of the world affords and all the machinery and tools to work it? Is it likely that the administration would overlook anything at would end unemployment and business?

These cure-alls serve one useful purpose. They impress upon the nation's leaders the absurdity of making the world's economies by state and slogan. They have put in leaders, to whom the people look for succor, to work at making the business structure, which they might otherwise be making four-leaf clovers.

A Missionary Mayor

SPEAKING of American missionaries in foreign fields, here is the patriotic mayor of Los Angeles. He is spreading a new gospel in strange lands, as well as factoring a lonely sanctity. Abroad with a group of touring American mayors, he consecrated himself to the noble purpose of compelling obedience to the noble experiment, capping several exhortations with a dramatic address from an official banquet in France when the host, the mayor of Paris, proposed a toast with red wine to the presidents of the United States and France.

His act raises a pretty question, couple of them, in fact. Did the mayor of Los Angeles, who had completed the conversion of his own city and state. Or was the move he made the popular one, politically, back home in view of the fact that French wines are in competition with the product of the subsidized grape growers of California?

If this missionary of the prohibition faith is to be criticized, it would be for invading the ports of the foreign inlands before he had completed the conversion of his own city and state. Or was the move he made the popular one, politically, back home in view of the fact that French wines are in competition with the product of the subsidized grape growers of California?

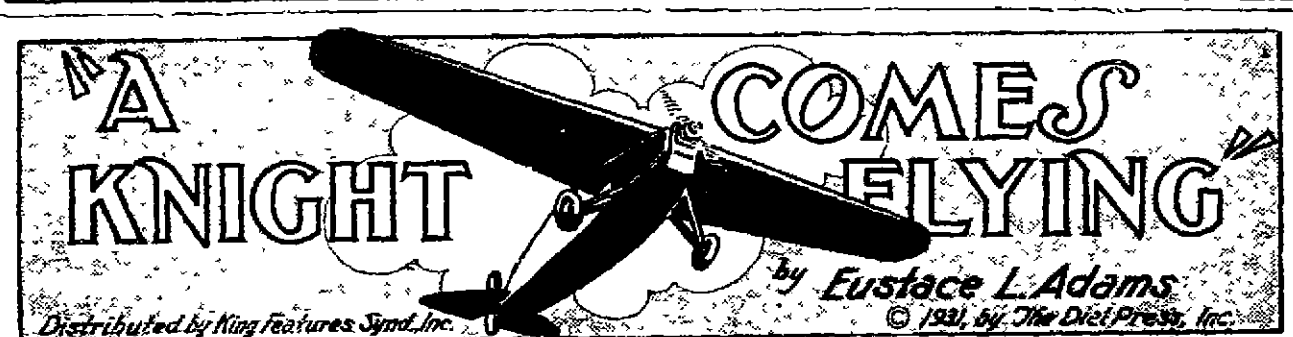

Renaming Armistice Day

BRITISH veterans of the World War would substitute a studied label for the inspired and spontaneous name given to November 11 by the people for whom it meant the cessation of hostilities and the restoration of peace and security. The British Legion would change "Armistice Day" to "Remembrance Day."

Although noble in purpose this move is unwise. It has not met with a favorable response in the United States or elsewhere, although both veterans and laymen are in accord with the thought that Armistice Day should be given over to paying solemn tribute to the soldier dead and veterans of the World War.

The first Armistice Day was a day of celebration for the restoration of peace and the day is still a peace holiday in all countries that had a part in the war. On that first Armistice Day the world was glad for the ending of the World War, impressing upon its mind a determination to end all wars that renew itself every November 11. This is the suggestion to rechristen this international holiday now without its dangers to the very essence of the day. By destroying the individuality of Armistice Day and making it just another Memorial Day the change of name

TWO SIGNBOARDS

Dave Ordway, wealthy, young aviator, lands his disabled plane in the Florida orange grove owned by Joan Marbury. Joan and her cousin, Sally, alone on the plantation, have great difficulty in running the place, due to the interference of Mueller, their disreputable neighbor. When Dave rescues Mueller's demand of $2,000 for the damage to his property, crashing through the trees to his landing on the Marbury plantation, Mueller holds him up and relieves him of $850 threatening to collect more. That night Mueller sets fire to Dave's plane. Rushing to the scene, Dave encounters Mueller. A quarrel ensues. Joan rescues Dave. Under Sally's care, Dave recovers from the effects of his fight. Though attracted to Sally he admires the reserved Joan's courage. Sally, anxious to return north for a good time, urges Joan to accept Dave's offer to purchase the plantation. Joan tells of the "accidents" to the property following her repulsion of Mueller's advances. Dave receives an unexpected visit from his former fiancée, Barbara Holworthy, and his friends, Gerry Flemming and Talbot Henderson.

CHAPTER XI

GERRY, immaculately clad in brown camel-hair jacket and flannel slacks, stared at the ebullient Talbot with a jaundiced eye. It had been Talbot's fault that Gerry had been forced to leave his great yacht. And whenever Gerry was ashore, he was more than usually morose. He would have gone to the ends of the earth to fetch and carry for the adventure-loving Dave, but he would have complained bitterly while doing it. But then, Gerry always complained. He complained even when Dave, Talbot and a score of friends were cruising the seven seas with him in spite of the fact that he was utterly happy in their company, especially with a rolling deck under his feet. The trouble was the only one he had, although he could have afforded a dozen. So much did he love his great white ship, with its crew of fifty and its vast accommodations for thirty, that he almost forgot to complain about the stinging bills that drifted in with every mail.

Vanity's Lesson

Joan, quiet and dignified, entered the room and stood under the light of the lamp. "Where's Barbara?" she demanded. "I don't know," Talbot answered. "I haven't seen her since she left." "Let's teach her a lesson," snapped Gerry, pointing at his hostess through his thick-lensed glasses. "Never on time, never." In cheerful disregard for the conventions, he and Talbot pulled out chairs for Joan and Sally who after an instant's hesitation, sat down. Then they seated themselves and fell upon the fruit cocktail unabashed. Talbot, whose well-filled pince-nez testified to his complete disregard for the calories, eyed Barbara's cocktail until Dave firmly pushed it out of arm's reach. "I'm still hungry, Miss Marbury," declared Talbot, winking significantly toward the kitchen. Joan's eyes met Dave's in mute interrogation. He grinned mischievously and nodded. She gave the signal and Hannah entered behind a huge blue platter, upon which was a fluffy golden omelet so fragrant and appetizing that the flyer almost forgot he had just eaten.

A Tense Moment

Then Barbara made her appearance, exquisitely beautiful in a soft daffodil-yellow gown. Her

I really wouldn't bother with it, but I know you've thought up a good story and I'd hate to disappoint you."

"Personally," yawned Barbara, "I think it would be something of a bore. It is obvious that he has just been fighting again, which is nothing to get bothered about. It is equally obvious that he has had excellent care. So why not talk about something interesting?"

"Cat!" said Gerry dispassionately. "Pipe down, Babs," said Talbot. "This is one of your off nights. It was a disaster to have brought you. All right, Dave, let's have your confession. Where did you get the puffed right cheek and the mouse over the left eyebrow? Why do you curse silently when you raise your left hand? Why do you lean forward as though you were all wrapped up in a plaster cast? In short, who has been inburmished coppery hair was moulded to her small head in shining waves. Her eyes, as she paused in the arched doorway, were deep green pools of anger. They were insolent, challenging, mocking Dave's with mocking self-assurance.

Barbara's eyes were insolent, challenging, meeting Dave's in mocking self-assurance.

The Flyer's Breath Caught in his Throat

The flyer's breath caught in his throat as he rose from his chair. Yet even as he marvelled at the beauty of her, he was conscious of a sudden flood of resentment that she should have dressed for dinner with such patent care. He saw her eyes, raptorially, flash with regard to her, coolly, impersonally, as she waited for her guest to come to the table. Sally, still seated, was staring at Barbara with downcast, hostile, too bright spots of angry color on her delicately tanned cheeks. Talbot, whose restless eyes were not as unobserving as they looked, was instantly aware of the undercurrent of antagonism between the girls. When all had been seated, he turned to Dave, whose smouldering gaze was still fixed upon Barbara. "Now, old timer," he said, "the party of hunger that was a roaring fire out of a burning tabby have been partially assuaged, so I'm ready to listen to your story with as straight a face as possible."

Anxious For Battle

Gerry and Talbot forgot to eat as they listened to his casually told story. Barbara, who paid careful attention while he spoke of a suddenly remembered engagement at Palm Beach and while he described his unexpected meeting with Sally and Joan, lost interest when he began to tell of his fight with Mueller. Dave, some fifteen years ago, had caused a Bar Harbor scandal by thrashing curly-headed Reggie Van Worth at dancing school because the heir to the Van Worth millions had tried to elbow him out of line during a German. Since that day, Dave's fights had varied only in detail and Barbara saw no reason to be amused. When he concluded his story, there was a long silence. Presently Gerry peered around the room through his thick-lensed spectacles. "Dave," he said, "let's go smack 'em Mueller." "I had not intended to leave," said Dave, "before kissing him, goodbye." Ivy Poisoning Must Be Treated Promptly

With the Outdoor Season at Hand Dr. Copeland Gives Some Timely Information About This Distressing Affliction, and Outlines Protective Measures.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,

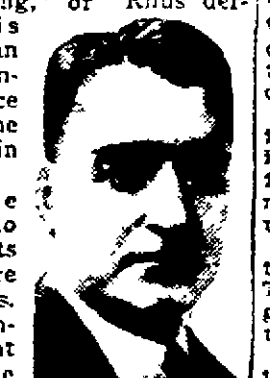

United States Senator from New York.

Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

NOTHING is more annoying or distressing than a siege of poisoning from ivy. Ivy poisoning, sometimes spoken of as "Rhus poisoning," or "Rhus dermatitis," is caused by an irritating resinous substance found in the sap of certain plants.

There are a few plants which produce this irritating substance. The most common is the plant belonging to the group known as Rhus. Rhus toxicodendron, or poison ivy, is readily distinguished from other similar plants by its leaves. It has three leaflets, the middle stem being longer than the other two. It is not necessary in every case to have direct contact with the plant. Many perplexing cases of ivy poisoning are thus explained. Indirect exposure may be sufficient to bring on an attack.

A susceptible person may be poisoned by merely sitting around a campfire in the path of ivy contaminated smoke. The sap of the plant may be carried indirectly by clothing, tools, insects and other objects. In this way it may reach the skin of persons who are quite a distance from the plant. The sap of the plant causes intense irritation of the skin. Swelling, itching and formation of blisters at first between the fingers, may be noticed. It spreads and may eventually cover the entire body. The attack usually lasts about four to six days but continues longer. The duration depends upon the degree of exposure and the sensitivity of the skin. Some individuals are more susceptible than others. Many persons are entirely immune to the unpleasant effects of ivy. If you are susceptible to poison ivy and have been exposed to the plant, use an alkaline soap. Wash freely in soapy water. This precaution may prevent poisoning. If you cannot obtain this soap, use gasoline. This application is often successful. But remember, the treatment whatever it is, must be applied promptly and thoroughly. If delayed, the irritation of the skin will spread.

Dr. Copeland

JUST KIDS Safety Album

The Case of Evelyn Singer

By AD CARTER

Originator of the "Just Kids Safety Club."

Evelyn Singer learned about the two kinds of motorists through her accident.

It happened like this:

Evelyn was on her way to visit a friend who lived near her home. There were no stop lights on her streets, and no policeman on duty at the corner so she was very careful to look to see if any automobiles were coming. She looked up the street, and down the street, and along the intersecting street.

Quickly she stepped off the curb and started across, unaware of the fact that an automobile was coming rapidly along the street in back of her. Without slowing down any to speak of it turned the corner and knocked Evelyn to the pavement.

Now you'd think that a driver whose car hit a girl would stop and take her to the hospital. Otherwise if the street were little used, she might be there for hours and die before being found.

Well this fellow who hit Evelyn didn't stop. He slowed down enough to see that he'd hit her then stepped on the gas and drove away, going faster than ever.

Evelyn was lucky, however, because in a few minutes another auto came along. The driver saw the little girl lying on the pavement, limp as a doll thrown into a corner and forgotten.

Although HE had nothing to do with the accident, he stopped his car, and went to Evelyn's assistance.

ance. He saw she was badly injured. She needed to go to the hospital.

In the distance he spied the policeman on the beat. The motorist called to him and the policeman came on the run.

"I found this girl here on the pavement, she's badly hurt," the motorist explained.

"Let's put her in the car and get her right to a hospital," the policeman suggested.

They carried Evelyn's limp body to the auto, and put her on the rear seat.

"Now drive as fast as you can to the hospital," the policeman ordered. "I'll stay back here with her to see she doesn't fall off the seat."

With his horn blowing to clear traffic the auto "drove" to the hospital as quickly as an ambulance could have done. There the doctors announced that Evelyn was badly hurt. She wouldn't die, they said.

You see her picture here as she was being X-rayed by Dr. Ginsberg and Nurse Lydia Richa.

Children who are members of "JUST KIDS SAFETY CLUB" of The Herald learn how to be extra careful to keep out of the way of automobiles. It may be the driver's fault when a child is hit, but the best way to keep your bones and skin whole is to make it impossible even for careless motorists to injure you.

YOUTH WHO HATED "COPPERS" SENTENCED TO DIE IN CHAIR

NEW YORK.—Francis ("Two Gun") Crowley, the misguided youth who "hated coppers" and thought he could get away with killing them, was today sentenced to die in the electric chair at Sing Sing prison the week of July 5. Sentence was imposed at Mineola, L. I., by County Judge Lewis J. Smith.

Crowley was convicted last Friday in the Nassau-co court at Mineola of the murder of Patrolman Frederick Hirsch, whom the nineteen-year-old hoodlum had riddled with bullets when he came to a parked automobile to question "Two Gun."

In the car at the time with Crowley was his sixteen-year-old "sweetie", Helen Walsh, who since testified against him although she "still cares for him."

Young Crowley heard the sentence with a show of bravado but he winced a bit when the fateful words were pronounced. He entered the crowded courtroom manacled to two deputy sheriffs and followed by another, who was heavily armed. In the courtroom at the time sentence was passed were seven uniformed policemen. These precautions were taken in view of the fact that when he was convicted last Friday, Crowley made a sensational but ineffectual attempt to escape his guards.

There was a faint smile on Crowley's face as he entered the courtroom. He nodded to his counsel, Charles R. Weeks, and whispered to him for a few minutes. His smile disappeared, however, when the proceedings were formally begun.

Judge Smith did not lecture or upbraid Crowley, merely pronouncing sentence formally, as prescribed by law.

The execution of the boy gunman may be delayed, nevertheless, until the court of appeals has passed on the case. This was the only hope left for Crowley.

A large crowd assembled at the courthouse to hear sentence pronounced on Crowley. When the judge ascended the bench the courtroom was packed to the doors, with many standing in the aisles and in the back of the room. Judge Smith directed that those persons not seated in the court room leave at once, which they did. The corridors outside were thronged.

When Judge Smith pronounced sentence, Crowley's lawyer moved that the verdict be set aside as against the weight of evidence. The judge denied the motion.

Crowley was then led back to his cell in the county jail to wait the time when he will be taken to Sing Sing where he will be imprisoned in "death row" preparatory to the fateful hour when he will walk "the last mile" to the brilliantly lighted execution chamber where "Gyp the Blood", "Red" Moran, Judd Gray and other infamous characters met their doom.

HUGE DIRIGIBLE INSPECTOR HAS BIGGEST JOB ON AIRSHIP

By G. EVERETT DOYING

AKRON, O., June 2.—The man with the biggest job on the biggest airship in the world—the Akron—now being constructed for the United States navy here, is Lieutenant Thomas G. W. Settle, known to his fellow-workers as "Tex."

Detailed by the navy department to inspect the dirigible before it is wheeled out to take its maiden flight, Settle is the fellow who must look at every one of the 6,500,000 rivets every piece of steel and every foot of the seven acres of balloon fabric outer covering used in constructing the giant ship.

Settle, in reality, is the buyer of the two ships to be built here for which $8,000,000 will be paid. His approval will be necessary before the government will accept the two dirigibles.

Coming here from the naval air base at Lakehurst, N. J., a year ago, the lieutenant has been on the job ever since watching the progress of the first ship on which the christening bottle will be broken sometime this summer.

He is one of the navy's best balloonists. He took part in four national and international races and in 1929 won the national event. It was during that event he set a distance record of 952 miles for ballooning, flying from Pittsburgh to Prince Edward Island, near the St. Lawrence Bay. Settle's dirigible experience, began in 1924 when he joined the ill-fated Shenandoah staff at Lakehurst. He held several positions on that airship and then was transferred to the crew of the Los Angeles as acting executive officer.

Settle has been associated with the Navy since 1914 when he entered Annapolis. He graduated in 1918, after which he served as convoy officer during the World war in the far east and in West Indian waters.

Born in Washington, D. C., Settle is a product of an old Virginia family. Many soldiers are included in his list of ancestors. His father served with the United States army in the Philippines and his mother's father was Brigadier General Williams of the Confederate army.

hours of rest, between 8 to 11 years they should have 10 to 11 hours of sleep, and if they are from 12 to 14 years old it is well for them to sleep about 10 hours. The boy or girl who is between 14 and 20 should get from 9 to 10 hours of rest, and adults are more likely to be in good health if they sleep between 8 and 9 hours.

Sleep helps the body to resist disease and fatigue. It may be encouraged by having a comfortable bed with good springs and a mattress with light warm covers. Lots of fresh air also makes it easier for one to obtain the full benefits from sound, health building rest at night. It is also best to sleep alone rather than two in the same bed.

NEGRO ROMEO IS DISCOVERED WRITING TO WHITE WOMEN

KENIA, O. June 2.—Oscar Goings, 51-year-old Negro Romeo, who, police say, proposed and was accepted by 18 white women, was held in jail here today while officials investigated a correspondence courtship he is said to have carried on with Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky women for seven months.

Arrested at an abattoir here where he slept, did odd jobs and acted as a watchman, Goings was found to have in his possession letters and photographs sent him by women whose names and addresses he found in matrimonial papers, authorities said.

In every case the correspondence love affair had progressed to the point where Goings, represented himself as a wealthy United States marshal, had proposed marriage and been accepted, according to police.

Officials arrested Goings after receiving complaints from a New Castle, Ind., woman who became suspicious when, she said, he sought to dissuade her from coming to Kenia to arrange a meeting with him.

A Loveland, O., woman also was reported to have complained to the department of justice at Cincinnati. Although names of the women were not revealed, nine were said to have been from Cincinnati. Three, it was reported, resided in Dayton.

Goings can be prosecuted on a charge of impersonating a federal officer if he is found to be sane, according to Paul H. Creswell, United States Marshal for the southern Ohio district.

Police said they have no reason to believe that Goings sought to obtain money from any of the women he wooed by mail. They were mostly "women of apparent refinement," police said. Terms of endearment and affection were liberally used in almost all the letters, they said.

Besides representing himself as a wealthy United States marshal, Goings also said he lived on the "drive to the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphans' Home," police related. In answer to police questioning, however, Goings was said to have replied that he has no home.

Consider your Adam's Apple!!* Don't Rasp Your Throat With Harsh Irritants

"Reach for a LUCKY instead"

When you visit your physician for your periodic health examination, one of the very first things he asks you to do is to open your mouth wide, and to say "Ah." He is examining the delicate lining of your throat. "Ah!" There is not a man or woman who could ever make this simple sound, if in the throat there were no Adam's Apple. For your Adam's Apple is your larynx—the voice box containing your vocal chords. And what a delicate piece of Nature's handiwork the Adam's Apple is. A slight cold—even a tiny particle lodged in the throat—and our voice often grows husky. In acute cases, we may even lose our voice for several days. Don't rasp your throat with harsh irritants—Reach for a LUCKY instead—remember, LUCKY STRIKE is the only cigarette in America that through its exclusive "TOASTING" process expels certain harsh irritants present in all raw tobaccos. These expelled irritants are sold to manufacturers of chemical compounds. They are not present in your LUCKY STRIKE. No wonder 20,679 American physicians have stated LUCKIES to be less irritating. LUCKIES are always kind to your throat. And so we say "Consider your Adam's Apple."

Intersectional War Is Resumed

By Less Conklin
NEW YORK, June 2.—Intersectional war will be renewed on the major league fronts this afternoon with the National league's eastern representatives inaugurating their first western trip and the western clubs in the American league making their bow before eastern fans.

The National league's schedule for the next week pits New York and Brooklyn, the loop's strongest eastern teams, against St. Louis and Chicago. The most powerful western contenders, The Giants will endeavor to wrest the league lead from the Cardinals in a four-game series starting in St. Louis today while the Cubs and Robins, both traveling at top speed, come to trips at Chicago. On Saturday the Giants will move to Chicago, with Brooklyn invading the Mount City.

New York and Brooklyn are scheduled to play more than thirty consecutive games against western opposition. Returning from their first tour west of the Alleghenies, they immediately will begin home stands against St. Louis, Chicago, Pittsburgh and Cincinnati.

The Cardinals and Cubs for some time have been feasting on Pittsburgh and Cincinnati, the two Tail-end outfits. If they falter against stronger opposition during the next five weeks, they will find themselves in the midst of a four-cornered dog fight for the lead with New York and Brooklyn.

The Giants do not figure on getting better than an even break in St. Louis and Chicago, but hope to win nine games out of the fifteen on their road trip by making hay while the sun shines in Cincinnati and Pittsburgh. At this moment, however, the New Yorkers do not appear as formidable as the Robins, who have started to click with a vengeance and would look like top-notch contenders if Babe Phelps, their big pitcher, should begin his form of last season.

New York's pitching has fallen off badly since a week ago when Hubbell and Walker hurled shut-out against Boston Thirty-eight runs have been scored against the McGrawmen in their last five games.

Reports will not down that "Red" Lucas, veteran Cincinnati pitcher, will be wearing a New York or Brooklyn uniform by the time that the trading season limit expires on June 15. It is said that Sidney Weil owner of the Reds, is willing to sell the stocky southerner for $50,000.

Right now $50,000 would look like a million at the Cincinnati box office, where the daily gate receipts hardly exceed the bat boy's salary.

Acquisition of Lucas might mean a pennant to New York or Brooklyn, especially to Robins, who are badly in need of another starting pitcher.

TEE TONIC for SPRING GOLFERS by GENE SARAZEN

Nothing is more essential in golf than a good, sound grip. Indeed the grip is the foundation of the correct golf swinging. I can't emphasize this too much. Unless you possess such a grip you can never hope to become successful on the links. A good, sound grip not only in one that holds on to the club correctly but never changes never diviates from the original hold.

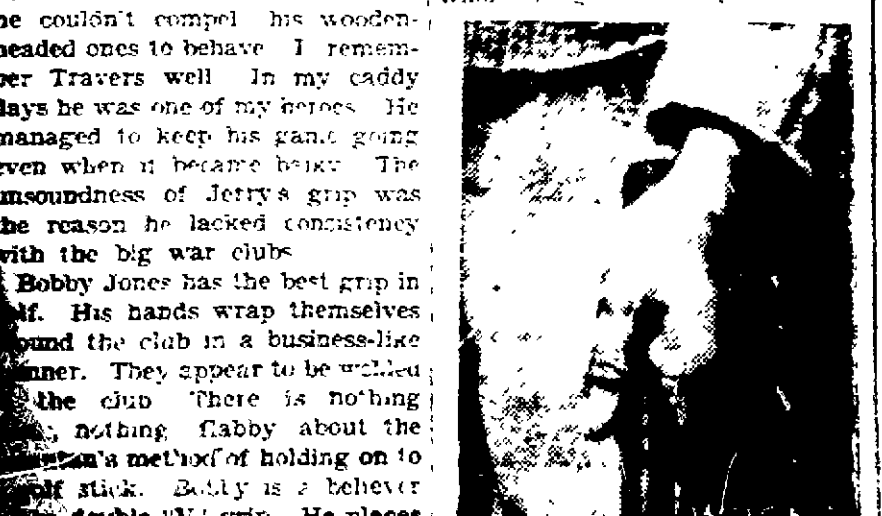

If photographs were taken of all the grips of the players in a national open championship I would be willing to wager I could pick out those who were the real stars and those who only on occasion were better than $0.

Chick Evans had a particularly fine grip and Chick was one of the greatest golfers ever produced in this country. On the other hand, Jerry Travers, although he achieved an enviable reputation, never had a sound grip, one that he could rely upon completely. Very often Jerry had to use iron-headed clubs from the tees because he couldn't compel his wooden-headed ones to behave. I remember Travers well. In my caddy days he was one of my heroes. He managed to keep his game going even when it became hairy. The unsoundness of Jerry's grip was the reason he lacked consistency with the big war clubs.

Bobby Jones has the best grip in M. His hands wrap themselves around the club in a business-like manner. They appear to be welded to the club. There is nothing nothing flabby about the man's method of holding on to the stick. Bobby is a believer in the double "V" grip. He places

GROCERS AGAIN DEFEAT OIL "9"

Fifteen Hits and 16 Errors Combined to Aid Cause; Score 14-9.

Fifteen solid hits plus 16 errors on the part of the league-leading Circleville Oils, gave the independent Grocers their second victory over this team at Utilities field Monday evening. The score was 14 to 9 with five runs in the last of the seventh putting the game on ice for the Grocery boys.

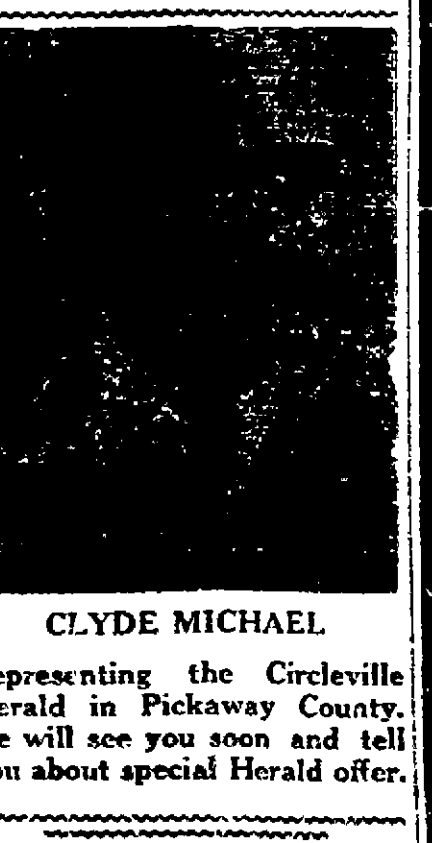

Just what was wrong with the Oils is difficult to fathom. Only two members of the Oils aggregation who started the game did not have errors marked beside their name. While the Oil-men were combining errors with their play the Grocers were smothering everything that came their way, only two miscues being marked on the score-card.

The Oils started things rolling in the first frame when six runs were scored off the tosses of Eddie Watson. The Grocers came back with two in the first and four in the third to tie the count. Each team scored twice in the fourth and the Grocers took a one run lead in the fifth. The Oils tied the count in the seventh but a big five run rally in the seventh gave the contest to the Grocers.

Watson and Mettler, each with three hits led the winners with the willow.

"RICK" FERRELL MAKING GOOD AS ONE MORE FAMED FERRELL

By ENGINEER J. ROGUSKI
International News Service Sports Writer

ST. LOUIS—Another member of the Ferrell family has made good in the major leagues.

The latest contribution of Mr. and Mrs. Ferrell to the big leagues is Richard ("Rick") Ferrell, first-string catcher of the St. Louis Browns.

Like his brother, Wesley Ferrell, ace of the Cleveland Indians pitching staff and considered one of the best hurlers in baseball today, "Rick" is one of the stars of the Browns' team.

"Rick" signed with the Browns several years ago for $25,000 after being declared a free agent by Kenesaw Mountain Landis, high commissioner of baseball. In addition, the contract called for a salary of $11,000, which is quite a sum as Brownie contracts go.

Ferrell, after the close of the 1929 season, batted .229.

Now, however, "Rick" is proving he was a good investment and is starting to pay dividends. This season he is in the midst of a great batting streak, being among the

SMALL STATE SCHOOL FACES ROWING STARS

Marietta Surprises With Showing Against Harvard and Pennsylvania.

MARIETTA, O., June 2—One of the bright sports which lighten gloomy skies of near professionalism, etc., in college sport has just happened—to an Ohio college.

Marietta College, oldest classical school west of the Alleghenies, and known for its high scholarship standards, has not had a consistently winning football, or basketball or baseball team for years too long to remember. Like many smaller colleges it is hopelessly outclassed in competition for the athletic timber which makes for famous teams.

But, two years ago, through the gift of the Kiwanis Club in Marietta, eight oared rowing was established.

The school has only about four hundred and fifty students, two hundred and fifty of them being men. Some of the wise-ones said such a size school could not support this great classic of college sports.

But, forty of sixty men have turned out for crew and every day sees the long, slim shells and flashing blades of varsity, jay-vee and frosh crews, on the training course on the Muskingum or on a time trial over the racing course on the Ohio.

And, scarce two weeks ago, Marietta engaged in its first intercollegiate boat race—against two of the biggest crews in the United States—Harvard and Pennsylvania.

Marietta had never rowed an intercollegiate race, had never been off its own familiar rivers. The crew only averaged to weigh one hundred and sixty-seven pounds per man. They had no special cars or fancy trimmings. The drove four hundred and fifty miles by automobile, borrowed a shell from "Rusty" Callow. Buck fever seized them—they lost five pounds weight per man before the race began—and they got a bad start which maybe cost them second place.

But, that green crew, stroked by a hundred and forty-seven pound bunch of nerves, Willie Meyers, rowed such a race that all the east is talking about it.

And, in June they race the famous University of Washington "Huskies" who have long had a way of walking off with first place at Poughkeepsie.

In fact, beside grit, Marietta has water—the finest crew racing water in America, so rowing coaches are beginning to say. And, courage and splendid natural advantages make up for a smaller student body. At Marietta they build crews—they just don't have enough students to pick out an inevitable crew.

And, strange as it may seem, there is not a Marietta oarsman who has any suggestion of difficulty with his scholastic standing. Every one is an 'A' or 'B' student. There are 5 Phi Beta Kappa's among those eight long, lanky, horny handed sweep-sweepers.

Apparently a small college can compete with the biggest in the country—without and blot on its escutcheon—and without a million dollars athletic endowment.

Another jolly recollection, associated with the old days at home, was walking across a dark kitchen into a hanging strip of fly-paper.

There comes a time in the career of every young humorist when he has to make up a comical epitaph and attribute it to "a graveyard near Boston."

So many new records have been set in aviation this summer that it reminds us of the old trotting horse days. It had to be a pretty poor trotting horse that couldn't set a record of some kind, there always being more than enough to go around.

One newspaper has sent a humorist to Washington as a correspondent. What makes it difficult is that his material has adjourned.

Annual Junior-Senior Party Is Resplendent With Color

A false ceiling of old rose and silver, colors of the class of 1931, and branches laden with green leaves covering the four walls of the gymnasium of the Circleville high school made an attractive setting for the annual Junior-Senior banquet Monday evening, when about 140 juniors and seniors, members of the faculty and board of education enjoyed another one of the biggest events of the school year.

White rocks formed paths throughout the room which led to the small tables pretty with pink covers, clever place cards and centered with pink rose buds. Programs of old rose and silver added to the beauty of the tables. Floor lamps and lights shaded with the class colors cast a mellow glow over the room in the center of which was an artistically arranged rock garden which added to the attractiveness of the scene. The figure "31," designed in pink and white peonies was set in the green wall of leaves at one end of the gym.

Following a delicious two-course dinner, Albert Hoffman, president of the junior class, gave an address of welcome and as toastmaster for the evening, introduced the following persons on the program:

Response: Robert Rooney
Piano Solo, "St. Louis Blues" Sheldon Mader

Evening Gowns Must Stand Test

By ALICE L'ANGELIER

PARIS — Daytime-evening ensembles refer to smart clothes put on before the lights come on these long spring evenings, especially in Paris where daylight lasts until dinner is finished and even later, in June.

Evening clothes must now stand the daylight test which is not such an easy matter for the woman who wears them, with all the very bright colors in vogue. Black and white are always safe in the sunlight, as well as under the electric glow. Violet-blue, soft green and certain shades of red are also good.

Worth makes a sane and safe daylight-evening ensemble in black crepe nicoles, with a long scarf which can be adjusted in different ways over an irregular, square decollete. The silhouette fits snugly to the knees and then flares as the frock which this dressmaker made last spring.

Lusien Lelong has chosen his daytime-evening costume in strawberry-red chiffon, eyelet embroidered. It has the diagonal line silhouette with a capelet-tha blouse.

Still another designer combines grey and rose flowered chiffon with a black taffeta waist-length jacket trimmed with tulle ruchings. Rose-garlanded armholes on the frock make a clever detail.

More unusual, perhaps, but just as elegant, is a heavy white satin tailored evening ensemble. The jacket is trimmed with rhinestone embroidery on the collar and cuffs and attached to two rhinestone buttons. The frock has a rhinestone embroidered band on the set-in pockets and a white satin belt.

MADER'S YARD IS BEAUTIFUL SCENE

A miniature nursery in which flowers of all variances cast forth their bloom in astounding beauty, representing many brilliant and unusual types of flowers and rock garden plants can be seen in the rear of the residence of Henry Mader, Pinckney-st.

A visit to this spot of beauty, where much time has been spent in the selection and arrangement of the varied plants and flowers will convince the ordinary type of flower-lover that his time has been well spent.

The beautiful rock gardens which have been so artistically constructed during the past two years by Mrs. Ella Hornbeck, and Mr. and Mrs. Mader, contain every species of wild flower that can be seen or found in this part of the state. In fact, Mrs. Hornbeck and Mr. and Mrs. Mader spend much of their time in visiting various parts of the state and collecting a new and unusual type of plant for the gardens.

The unusual arrangement of the gardens is in itself a part of the beauty of the yard. Among the many plants represented in the rock garden are wall flowers, pansies, wild pinks, variegated colored roses, blue flax, delphinium, buttercups, painted daisies, ragged robins, anemone, and many other wild plants.

The gardens are surrounded with many other type flowers, including every color of iris, columbine, shasta, daisies, many kinds of fern, oriental poppies, red and white peonies, pinks and parthenes.

Mrs. Hornbeck and Mr. and Mrs. Mader can be well proud of such a place of beauty which is a reality of their past two years' continued efforts.

JUST UP-ING AND UP-ING ABOUT.

Our humble efforts to promote the Up and Up Club have, so far, been very successful. We have more charter members and applicants... well, let's put it this way:

If all the members and applicants for membership were laid end to end there would be a lot of people lying around.

No fooling, figure it out for yourself, it does put a different angle on things. You go up to somebody and say, "How's tricks, Oscar, my boy?" And he starts crying on your shoulder, moistening the tweed. It's just a toss-up whether you join with him, or give him something to cry about.

Or, you say to somebody else, "What's the dope, Bill?" And he passes you a grin and says, "Things are sure on the up and up."

Believe it or not, morally, mentally and cheerfully, THAT guy is your pal.

Even the weather has caught the proper spirit. Have you read your thermometer lately? It's on the up and up. Reminding us to tell you that now is the time to check over your porch and lawn needs, and then come in for that extra chair, settee, or (in a moment of optimism) a complete new outfit.

There's no two ways about it. If a store treats a customer well, giving him good values and service, he'll stick through thick and thin to that store. For instance, there's Clifford Imier, who lives near KKK. No, those Ks don't stand for Ku Klux Klan, but for Kinnikinnick (golly, if that word isn't a stumper). In spite of the distance Clifford has to travel to reach us, he was in Friday evening and purchased an 11-5x12 Quaker Felt Base Rug of us. You bet your life, we appreciate that kind of a customer.

For Buying Electric Refrigeration:

Question: Are the various temperatures in Kelvinator refrigerators automatically maintained without attention from the owner?

Answer: The exclusive Kelvinator 4-Way Cold gives (1) de-low-freezing in the Frost Chest; (2) super-fast freezing of ice cubes and desserts in the Iso-Thermic Tube trays; (3) fast-freezing trays; and (4) the correct temperature for food preservation on the food shelves. Kelvinator does all this without attention from the owner or operator.

Mack Mader, who works for Otis D. Mader's Gift Store, was showing a lady some of their wall paper cleaner, when she asked, "Are you sure this cleaner will really take off the dirt?" To this, Mack replied, "Will it? Say, yesterday I rubbed some of it on a copy of Scandalous Stories and when I got through I had the Sunday School Gazette."

Folks that use kerosene stoves in hot weather surely flocked into our store last Friday and bought Alcazar and Kerosas wicks and Florence Kindlers. They're getting all set for hot weather. How's your oil stove supplies?

So many people call us and ask about needles for their sewing machines that we are prompted to mention them in RTT. Yes, we can supply needles for any make of machine, and belts, too.
